Chapter 1 by SaintSayaka

You grew up in the same house as the region's most illustrious Pokemon breeder. By the time that you're twelve and your mom gifts you with your very first Pokemon, handling the creatures seems like second nature. At any given time, there was always at least ten Eevees in the house - that was your mom's specialty, after all. So it only made sense that your first Pokemon was an Eevee - a small female bred to sport robusts features in an all-together delicate frame. Two years went by. You and your Eevee have grown close. It's time to start your adventure across the world with her.

But first - what are you going to evolve her to? Continue your bond with her, and she could evolve into a Sylveon. But your mom is also willing to give you one of her Stones. What to do?

Chapter 2 by Sophia Hughes

We took off going on to more adventures. I was thinking what we were getting into we walked into a forest. I saw a Pokemon, and for some reason it was shiny. So, I thought I'd catch it. When I caught it, there was this weird guy who looked like a knight. I ignored him and I caught it and returned home to show it to my mom. When I took it out of its pokeball my mom screamed. She has been a pokemon trainer her whole life and never before had she seen this pokemon. "We must take this to the professor!" said my mom.

We walked to the professors house and kept both pokemon out of their pokeballs. Eevee was playing around with this shiny, unknown pokemon. When we got to the professor's house we knocked on the door. He told us to come in. When we got inside we showed him my newly caught pokemon. He was also in shock of this. He asked me, "How, just how did you find this pokemon so quickly?" All I did was shrug my shoulders. I honestly didn't know how I caught it. He looked at my hands and his eyes widened.

He told me I have a special power, the power of shinies. He explained to me that he wanted me to stay home and don't go out. Team Plasma will try to attack and kidnap you. They have always wanted this special power, so they can kill and kidnap pokemon. I was in shock. But then I remembered, the guy who looked like a knight. "Excuse me professor? I remember when I caught it, there was a weird guy. He looked like a knight," I said. The professor's heart dropped, well at least that's what it looked like. He told me we had to get out of here. As we were walking to the door we heard a knock, not a polite "may I please come in knock". It was a knock, like someone was trying to murder you.

The knocking stopped, but then we heard something. We heard something charging up, it was like a laser. Then I realized it was...

Chapter 4 by Rubyghast

It was the scientist of Team Plasma, Colress, along with some of the Team Plasma Grunts.

Colress had been developing a machine to capture and enhance the power of shinies. And, it had been completed. He was beginning to power it up to use on the Pokemon. My Pokemon...

already lost my Pokemon... How can I be a Pokemon breeder if I can even keep my own Pokemon safe?

"I'll never allow this to happen in my lab, this is absolutely ridiculous! Pokemon are not only our neighbors, our helpers, they are our best friends!". I appreciate the professor's efforts to save my Pokemon, but one of the more muscular grunts just pushed the professor, and professor fell flat on his back.

Just as Team Plasma is about to leave, Colress seems to notice something, "Huh? What is that? Is it a Pokeball? That is amazing! I've never seen a Pokeball shake so vigorously before! It must be storing a seriously powerful Pokemon. Go grunts, we must study this Pokemon!".

"Stop! You don't know what you are doing! We have been trying to calm him down since we rescued him from a cargo ship coming from Johto! You cannot control his anger towards humans, he will attack us and destroy the lab!"

But it's too late, the grunt has already released the enraged Pokemon - Charizard.

Chapter 6 by Rhuaridh Kinghorn

As the ferocious Fire-type roared, I could feel Eevee's emotion. It was scared, petrified of this gargantuan Pokemon, immobilized. I felt equally as scared, not knowing what to do. I had only just began my journey and already I had put my Pokemon's lives in danger...

Suddenly, I heard sirens. Then the cries of two Pokemon instantly recognizable to me, because of my admiration for them as a schoolkid, when their power would be showcased on many visits to our school - Arcanine and Luxray. Of course, this meant that the police had arrived, led by the Officer Jenny of our neighbour, Striation City.

Suddenly, Team Plasma disappeared, in a puff of smoke. It must have been the Shadow Triad, always saving their own. Even after Team Plasma had departed, there was still the case of the enraged Charizard. The Arcanine tried to bring it down, but no avail due to Charizard being a Fire-type itself.

It seemed this would be down to the Luxray, as the ball of electricity inside of them to light this Flying-type's wings.

Chapter 7 by David Simpson

Luxray fired bolt after bolt at Charizard, but it was so powerful it was obvious that an electric-type would not be enough. Out of the corner of my eye, I noticed a Net Ball, shaking lightly, under one of the professor's tables. I knew it must be a Water type!

Quickly, I grabbed and threw it out onto the battlefield. The ball sprang open, and out came a.... Blastoise! This would take down Charizard lickety-split!

Blastoise fired a Water Cannon, striking Charizard in the belly. Charizard roared in pain and retaliated with Flamethrower, not really affecting Blastoise, but ricocheting off Blastoise's shell and hitting Luxray.

It was a critical hit!!! Luxray was down for the count. All our hopes now rested on Blastoise.

Chapter 8 by Justin Chan

Blastoise used aqua tail! But Charizard countered it with Fire fang! Charizard teeth sank deep into Blastoise's tail, but Blastoise used rapid spin to fling Charizard onto lab equipment and smashed a hole straight through the wall...

I ran towards the corner of the room which Eevee is hiding. Oh my poor Eevee, she is shaking in fear! I hugged her hard, yet gentle enough to not hurt her. Eevee looked at me with her big eyes, in the deep sea that is her eyes, I see a frightened, majestic creature, a creature that, though frightened, she is determined to defend me, her trainer.

Eevee started to give off a bright glow, she is evolving...

"BOOM!", a huge explosion happened outside.

I looked out just in time to see Charizard use flare blitz on Blastoise, Blastoise took the hit hard, it needed help. Just as Charizard is about to use dragon claw on Blastoise...

"Go Sylveon! block that hit and use moonblast on Charizard!"

Sylveon took the hit, but she isn't hurt at all because she is a fairy type. Sylveon used moonblast and Charizard is down.

The professor ran out and... Charizard is under control.
"That was a really impressive display of skills and knowledge, say, have you ever considered to be a competitive Pokemon trainer?".

I was lost in words, me? as a competitive Pokemon trainer?

"Well, anyways, I have seen your talent as a Pokemon trainer, no matter if you want to be a Pokemon trainer or a Pokemon breeder in the future, you know that I will be supporting you. Here, take this," he handed me the Pokeball containing Charizard, "I believe you have the talent to control and befriend him, I know he will be in good hands from now on."

And after a short but sweet parting, I set off on my journey again with Sylveon, Charizard and... wait, where's my shiny Pokemon? It must have gone away in the chaotic battle... I hope it is doing well, after all, I have never seen a pink, cat-like Pokemon like that before. I think it must be a very powerful psychic type because shines with a protective aura around it.

But there's no point in crying over spilled milk, the thought of catching it again, or at least another one that species again will only motivate me to press on forward.
